

OUR CLASS newsletter

SEPTEMBER 14-18

THIS TERM

I want to create a space where curiosity is sparked and mistakes are celebrated as growth. To support this, we are using the 'No Opt Out' method, where we all help one another succeed with questions we may not know just yet.

My goal is to help students see how their learning applies in the real world, beyond a worksheet or textbook. I am hoping to have at least one hands-on activity per unit whenever possible, encouraging students to take ownership of their learning.

MATH

We are learning how numbers apply to real life and using math to solve everyday problems.

SCIENCE

We are learning about the properties of light and sound and how their technologies affect society and the environment.

SOCIAL STUDIES

We are learning to identify Canada's political and physical regions and investigate how industrial activities balance with environmental protection across them.

LANGUAGE

We are learning to use reading, writing, and communication strategies to understand and create a variety of texts.

We are starting with letter writing and exploring Because of Winn Dixie characters.

MEDIA & TECHNOLOGY

We are learning to use digital tools, transferable skills, and cross-curricular learning to analyze diverse perspectives and engage safely online.

BIBLE

We are learning to study the Bible, reflect on heart change, and respectfully share our faith using practical tools and historical examples like Pentecost and William Carey.
